Introduction

This work was done by a team of members of the Archibald Orrell Lamoreaux [AOL] family as a labor of love. The translator, Kenn Garner, is an accredited translator. Evaluations and decisions on the data was done by Isabelle Cluff, a professional genealogist.

We offer this, with our love, to the many others of the Lamoreaux family who have descended from Andre and Suzanne. Some of you have spent decades dedicated to researching the Lamoreaux / Lamoureux / L'Amoureux Family. Others are new to this work.

If you desire more information on what is presented here please contact April Coleman.

Dedication

This work is dedicated to Andre Lamoreaux & Suzanne deLatour with our love. We know of their desire as Huguenot refugees to live in religious freedom and we thank them for their sacrifices so that they could do so. We appreciate all they gave up, all they left behind in France. We thank them for these sacrifices which have given us these same rights.

We honor them and the rest of their descendents who felt like they had to flee or fight to be able to live in freedom or defend their rights. Andre & Suzanne set the example for their children and their children's children to do the same.

They have been an inspiration in our struggles. Their example helps make our sacrifices for what we feel is right have meaning. We, too, can stand for what we believe in because of their example. We thank them for what they did. We are thrilled to find this other chapter in their lives.

Some of your children,
Isabelle, Kenn, Todd, April
