All Here Except 1 - The Missing Son:

There are two stories behind the previous picture.

1. It was taken at their home at 52 S Mesa Drive. Sybil had had to have her appendix taken out. And right before this pictures was taken the family had a picnic at the lake.
2. The picture was taken in Globe - From Mabel's journal: Gas was so scarce and "we could only get enough to go as far as Globe," so Max met them there. Ray couldn't get off to come and Raymond, who was running a service station at Maricopa, said, "Oh, mom can't get her kids all together," so he went hunting or fishing or something and was the only one of the kids that wasn't there, "though he was the only one that could get all the gas he needed. I felt like choking him and think I would have had I been able to get my hands on him. I didn't have a picture of all the family together, so I got one minus Raymond."

Mabel Asay Lamoreaux

THATCHER: Funeral services for Mabel Asay Lamoreaux, 96, who died Jan. 22, 1984 at Patterson Terrace Care Center in Mesa, were held Jan. 26 at the Mesa 14th Ward Chapel. Bishop Gayle Guinn of the Mesa 14 Ward officiated.

Raymond Lamoreaux offered the Family Prayer and Jody Johnston provided the Prelude music. Coy Johnston gave the Invocation and Kenney Rowley gave the Life Sketch. The hymn "Oh My Father" was performed by Delane Turner, Coy Johnston, Jr., Scott Edgington and Terry Richardson. Gene Johnston spoke on "Memories of Grandma" and Alex Finter sang the hymn "The Lord's Prayer." Nedra Goodman gave the Benediction.

Concluding services and interment followed in the Mesa Cemetery and Jim Maner offered the Dedicatory Prayer.

The casket bearers were Rick Lamoreaux, Von Hancock, Scott Taylor, Gordon Rowley, LeRoy Merkley and Jack Paris, Jr. Mrs. Lamoreaux' other 15 grandsons were the honorary bearers.

Mrs. Lamoreaux was born Nov. 11, 1887 in Thatcher. She was the daughter of William Asay and Alice in the Duncan-Virden area. Later they moved to the Bryce-Pima area where they lived until 1933. The couple then moved to Mesa where Mrs. Lamoreaux lived the rest of her life. She was active in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Mrs. Lamoreaux was preceded in death by a daughter, Lora in 1918 and her husband, Ray in 1965.

She is survived by daughters Zara Johnston, Vera Taylor and Zelma Merkley, all of Mesa, Sybil Jespersion of Gilbert, Lela Hancock and Anna Lou Maner of Pima, Buena Carter of Tuba City and Alice Stromberg of Pomona, Calif, sons Raymond of American Fork, Utah, Archie of White Salmon, Wash., and Max of Kununurra, Australia, sisters Millie Tyre and Rose Garrento and a brother William Asay of Florahome, Fla., 52 grandchildren and 164 great grandchildren.

Hendricks. In 1899 the family moved to Duncan, Mrs. Lamoreaux attended the Gila Academy and, on June 5, 1905, she married Ray Delos Lamoreaux. The couple spent the next five years
